Editorial Articles.

FROM THE DAILY P. C. A.

THE time fixed for holding the Annual Show of the Royal Hawaiian Agricultural Society is now near at hand and we have been requested to draw the attention of intending exhibitors to the desirability of their giving early notice to the officers of the Society of what they intend to exhibit. Active preparations for the show are being made by the Board of Management. The large building purchased from the executors of the late Princess Ruth has already been removed to the Park and its re-erection will shortly be completed. This will afford superior accommodation for exhibits of produce and manufactured articles and for the Horticultural Show than was available last year, and we hope to see it filled the productions of the country. The plans for the other buildings have been decided upon and work has already commenced in preparation for their erection. The stalls for horses and cattle, will, it is hoped, be found much more convenient than those put up last year when the smallness of the available space cramped the design. The prizes offered are very numerous, and as we have already announced, the Board of Management have determined not to limit them to the published list, should stock or other exhibits of merit be entered which do not fall into any of the classes as originally arranged. The desire of the Board is to give a premium to whatever is most excellent, their sole object being the encouragement of stock-breeding and of all forms of Agriculture and Horticulture and Domestic Manufactures.

There never was a time in the history of the country when such encouragement was more needed, especially in regard to the minor industries of the country. If Hawaii is to be filled with a happy and contented population she must cease to depend on foreign countries for the large proportion of her food supply which is now imported. The soil of the country is capable of supporting, in comfort, a much larger population than we can hope to see here within the lifetime of the present generation, and every thing that tends to develop its resources is of the highest importance to the country. Among the few agencies at present at work in that direction, the Agricultural Society should occupy no mean place. We heartily wish that its Second Annual Show may be an unequalled success and that it make manifest the fact that progress has been made since last year in many directions.

WE regret very much to find that legislation in regard to the incorporation of Joint Stock Companies, which is so much needed, is put off indefinitely, and that the Assembly is indulging in a fight over a word as to the proper functions of the Minister of the Interior under the existing unsatisfactory law.

The sort of Act we suggested some time ago, has, we believe, the unanimous approval of the business community of these islands, including at least one member of the House who supports the lame attempt at amendment now being discussed by the Assembly, Mr. W. O. Smith. This gentleman is going against his own convictions as to what would be proper and useful in supporting a bill which would perpetuate the present tiresome and antiquated fashion of obtaining incorporation with the slight and entirely immaterial amendments which that bill provides for.

What business men want is some legislation similar to that which prevails in America, the British dominions and France, and probably in many other countries. Such legislation would fix once and for all what legislation is likely to interest

the Report of the Minister of Foreign Affairs was presented to the Legislature on Saturday last. It is a document of twenty-two pages giving an account of all matters likely to interest
